

NORTH BRITISH RAILWAY STUDY GROUP

LIST OF PASSENGER STATIONS OPERATED BY THE NBR, ITS CONSTITUENTS, JOINT COMPANIES, AND SUCCESSORS

(Where the station name has changed over time, generally indexed under the last/latest name.)

Acknowledgement: this list is extracted from 'Railway Passenger Stations in Great Britain – A Chronology' by Michael E Quick and published by the Railway and Canal Historical Society (R&CHS). The full 'Chronology', with details of opening and closing dates, changes of name, and much additional detail, is available to view online, free of charge, via the R&CHS website at <https://rchs.org.uk/>. The direct link to the September 2020 edition – v 5.02 – is at <https://rchs.org.uk/wp-content/uploads/2020/09/Railway-Passenger-Stations-v5.02.pdf>.

The information in the 'Chronology' is copyright of the R&CHS and attention is drawn to the copyright notice on page 3 therein.

Acknowledgment is also made to the work of former Study Group member, the late David Lindsay, who spent some considerable time researching the subject and compiled the Study Group publication (now out of print) 'North British Railway Register of Stations Routes and Lines'. David contributed information from his research to Michael Quick over several years. Rather than attempt to update David's publication (which included goods stations) in the light of ongoing research by Mr Quick and by members of the Study Group, it has been thought better to provide a link to the latest information available in the 'Chronology'. (May 2021).

This listing includes private passenger stations and platforms both temporary and permanent.
